Total Expense Ratio (TER): This shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over a rolling three years (where applicable) and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): The percentage of the value of the fund as costs relating to the buying and selling of the Fund's underlying assets. Transaction costs are a necessary cost in administering the Fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of Fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER. Where a transaction cost is not readily available a reasonable best estimate has been used. Estimated transaction costs may include Bond, Money Market and FX Costs (where applicable).

Total Investment Charges (TIC): The percentage of the value of the Fund incurred as costs, relating to the investment of the Fund. As fund returns are reported after deducting all fees and expense, these costs (the TER & TC) should not be deducted from the fund returns. It is the sum of the TC & TER.

The Sterling cash fund aims to maintain capital value and liquidity while producing a return for investors in line with money market rates. The Stanlib Sterling fund, managed by J.P. Morgan Asset Management, uses high quality short-term Debt Securities, deposits with credit institutions and Reverse Repurchase Agreements to enhance returns. Investments will have a credit quality consistent with maintaining a Fitch Fund rating of AAA and a rating of AAA by Standard & Poor's for the fund. The fund's weighted average maturity is 40 days.

The Bank of England's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) voted to keep its policy rate on hold at 5.25% at its March meeting, in line with unanimous expectations among economists. The MPC also signalled a growing consensus to move towards rate cuts before long: even though there was still only one vote for an actual rate reduction, the two hawkish members who had still voted for rate hikes at the last meeting switched to the majority position of preferring unchanged rates this time.

In its discussion of the economic backdrop and outlook, the MPC noted several helpful developments when it comes to pushing inflation back down to the 2% target. In headline terms, GDP may only have experienced a very shallow and, in the MPC's view, short-lived recession; but Bank staff estimated that the fall in market-sector output over H2 2023, which the monetary stance will have a greater influence on, was in fact somewhat larger. Along with indications of a continued loosening in the labour market, judging by a range of metrics, the MPC therefore saw evidence of its restrictive monetary policy stance taking effect, bearing down on activity and thereby on inflationary pressure.

As for inflation, the MPC also noted some positive trends. Encouraging was the fall in inflation itself in February, a little larger than anticipated thanks to a slightly steeper than predicted decline in goods price inflation. Perhaps more satisfactory still was that a broad range of near-term inflation expectation measures, by households, firms and market participants, had declined.

Statutory disclosure and general terms & conditions

Collective investment schemes in securities are generally medium to long-term investments. The value of participatory interests may go down as well as up and investors may get back less cash than originally invested. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. An investment in the participations of a collective investment scheme in securities is not the same as a deposit with a banking institution. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down. Participatory interest prices are calculated on a net asset value basis, which is the total value of all assets less liabilities in the Class Funds including any provisions made for any purchase, fiscal or other charges that would have been incurred had all the assets of the relevant class fund been bought or sold at that time, divided by the number of participatory interests in issue. Please refer to the prospectus for more details on the charges and expenses that may be recovered from the Class Funds. Participatory interests are priced daily using the forward pricing method. The Class Funds may borrow up to 10% of the market value of the Class Funds to bridge insufficient liquidity as a result of the redemption of participatory interests. Collective investment schemes are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending.

A schedule of fees and charges and maximum commissions is available on request from STANLIB Fund Managers Jersey Limited, ('the Manager').
